

Censure of Dodd is Urged by Ethics Committee's Head

By E. W. KENWORTHY
(C) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — Sen. John Stennis, chairman of the ethics committee, warned the Senate yesterday that it could not afford to ignore or condone the conduct of Sen. Thomas J. Dodd.
Dodd, in reply, denied the charges of misuse of funds on which a resolution of censure against him is based. "I do not ask for mercy," he said. "I ask for justice."
The Senate opened debate yesterday morning on the resolution, which was recommended by the ethics committee last April 27 after 14 months of investigation.

Stennis was the opening speaker. In the course of retracing the committee's findings, he bluntly accused the Connecticut Democrat of diverting to his own use at least $116,000 of political campaign funds and proceeds from testimonial dinners.
At the close of his two-hour speech, Stennis said:
"As an act of generosity, of feeling, of compassion, I would like to be more generous than this resolution is. But that is not the question. The question comes down to this: what are we going to do about it?"
He said he did not believe the Senate could regard as "proper conduct for a sitting member" what the testimony showed to have been Dodd's conduct.
The Senate leadership had announced that following the opening speech by Stennis and one by Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, the committee's vice chairman, Dodd would be given the floor to reply to the charges.

This schedule was thrown away, however, when Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana, the Democratic whip and Dodd's floor counsel, preempted much of Dodd's time with an arm-waving denunciation of columnists Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson and four former employees of the senator who took 4,000 documents from his files and gave them to the columnists.
When Dodd finally rose to speak, Long said that no member had a right to sit in judgment on a senator whom he had not heard, and called for a quorum call. When 72 members answered their names, Long still was not satisfied and wanted another quorum call.
Finally, majority leader Mike Mansfield asked Dodd if he would like to delay his speech until tomorrow, and Dodd agreed.

Senator John Stennis, chairman of the Ethics Committee which investigated Dodd's finances, said the Senate would be derelict in its duty if it did not censure him, Dodd said he would ask for expulsion if the Senate felt the charges of misconduct were true. ## Water Restricted For Jamestowners

JAMESTOWN — Jamestown has new restrictions on water usage in the city.

The Board of Public Utilities imposed the restrictions yesterday. It is the seventh time such restrictions have been in effect in the past 12 years.

This year for the first time, commercial and private car washing is prohibited—unless private water supplies are used. Individuals may wash their cars only if they use a pail of water and a sponge.

The resolution came out of an emergency meeting of the board at noon yesterday. It was signed by acting Mayor John B. Carlson.

About 70,000 residents in Jamestown, Falconer, Celoron, and parts of Ellicott are affected. William A. Taylor, the board's chairman, said the hot, humid weather has increased water consumption "dramatically."

Johnson Names Negro To Supreme Court Bench

By ROY REED

(C) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — President Johnson nominated solicitor General Thurgood Marshall for a seat in the Supreme Court yesterday. Marshall will be the first Negro on the court if the Senate confirms his appointment.

Confirmation seems likely, judging from the initial reaction in the Senate. Non-southern senators applauded the appointment and southerners accepted it, at least for the moment, in uncharacteristic silence.

Negro leaders were jubilant. Floyd McKissick, the chairman of the Congress of Racial Equality, said the appointment had stirred "pride in the breast of every black American."

Marshall, who is 58 years old, is to succeed Associate Justice

Tom C. Clark, who retired Monday.

Marshall, the great-grandson of a slave, is the best-known negro lawyer of this century because of his legal battles against segregation. Southerners in the Senate delayed his confirmation for several months when he was appointed by former President Kennedy to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit in 1961.

It had been expected for years that Marshall would eventually become the first Negro justice, but recent speculation had given him no special edge over other prospective nominees.

The President, as is his custom, gave no advance hint of his selection. Reporters were unexpectedly called into the White House rose garden outside his office shortly before noon. Johnson stepped in front of the microphones and, blinking in the sun, matter-of-factly announced what may be the most dramatic appointment of his presidency.

Marshall stood by with his hands in his pockets, his usually mobile face solemn, as the president told of his nomination.

"I believe he has already earned his place in history," Johnson said. "But I think it will be greatly enhanced by his service on the court."

Johnson declared that Marshall had earned the appointment by his "distinguished record" in the law. He added: "He is best qualified by training and by very valuable service to the country. I believe it is the right thing to do, the right time to do it, the right man and the right place."

It's W-NYP

Jamestown's forthcoming television station, on Channel 26, has been assigned the call letters W-NYP, according to an announcement by the Federal Communications Commission.

The letters W-NYP were requested by Trend Broadcasting Inc.

Route 6 Accident Leaves Man Serious

A Bradford man is listed in serious condition at the Warren General Hospital following an early morning automobile accident on Route 6, west of Warren, in Starbuck.

Alvin C. Johnson, 44, of 30 E. Main st., Bradford driving east on Route 6 crossed the center lane into the westbound lane and struck a tractor trailer operated by Dale Fleming, 29, of R.D. 1, Shelocta, according to state police at the local substation.

Johnson apparently fell asleep, according to police. Damage was estimated at $750. No one was injured in another accident which occurred at 7:30 p.m. at the intersection of Route 27 and 69, in Sugar Grove. Police said a car operated by Perry Rutland, 49, Chancellers Valley failed to yield the right of way at the stop intersection to a car driven by Leroy C. Williams, 21, of Sugar Grove. Trooper John Barnes is continuing his investigation into the two-car mishap. Total damage was estimated at $750. Two people escaped injury, in a two-car accident on Route 59, in Mead township late yesterday afternoon, according to state police at the local substation. The accident occurred at 8:30 p.m., about 200 feet west of Keenan road. A car operated by Jane Ellen Gum, 18, of 120 Euclid ave., Bradford, crashed into a car operated by John J. Woslaski, 57, Mt. Vernon ave., New Jersey, police said. Damage to the vehicles was estimated at approximately $500.

sought last night to force a showdown in the U.N. Security Council on the withdrawal of Israeli troops from occupied Arab territory. The Soviet effort was delayed, however, by a vote to adjourn until Wednesday.

The Soviet move was designed to open the way for an emergency session of the 122-nation General Assembly.

There appeared no doubt but that the Soviet Union would succeed in getting the emergency session, which requires only a majority of the assembly members.

But as for the Soviet resolution on the withdrawal of Israeli troops, independent surveys indicate it will receive no more than six Security Council votes, three short of the required number.

Hectic Day On Capitol Hill in Harrisburg

By PAUL ZDINAK
HARRISBURG (AP) — The legislative battle over the budget and proposed taxes remained on dead center yesterday. Faced with this impasse, the House and Senate adjourned until Monday.

When the General Assembly returns it will have two more weeks to maneuver before the July 1 start of the 1967-68 fiscal year.

Unless legislative leaders and Gov. Shafer come to some common ground on the state's money problem before July 1, the legislature will be forced to pass "stop gap" appropriations bills.

This emergency money would be used to tide the state over while the budget and tax problems are being ironed out. It would be replaced once the budget is passed.

The key to the budget battle is Shafer's proposed $287 million tax package, which is still locked in the House Ways and Means Committee.

Shafer, a Republican, had hoped to spring some of the bills loose this week. But there is strong opposition to several of the tax measures.

The governor has scheduled a meeting at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday with Republican leaders from the House and Senate in an effort to resolve the internal problem over taxes.

Republicans in both chambers have an absentee problem. Several of their members are in the hospital or else are convalescing. Consequently, the GOP can't come up with the required number of votes.

Minority Democrats, for the time being, are refusing to lend support on the budget problem. Shafer's proposed $1.791 billion budget for the coming fiscal year can be trimmed even further.

All in all, it was a hectic day on Capitol Hill.

The governor delivered a special message on insurance to a joint session of the legislature. He asked for "a sweeping program of reform" in the state's insurance laws, especially in the car insurance field.

Back on the budget scene, the Shafer Administration introduced in the Senate its general appropriations bill, which represents the bulk of the governor's proposed budget. It was referred to committee.

Also in the Senate, minority Democrats continued their blocking of 24 other budget bills. The money measures, thus, have remained on the second reading calendar for the second week in a row.

In the House, Republicans caucused on the governor's budget proposals and the recommended ways of raising the $267 million in new revenue to help finance it. A spokesman said the emphasis was on the budget and possible cuts.

The House Ways and Means Committee met earlier in the day and discussed Shafer's proposed tax program. However, none of the bills in the tax package was released.

Chairman John Hope Anderson, R-York, confirmed earlier reports that opposition was particularly stiff against the proposed unincorporated business tax and a tobacco tax.

"Some suggested possible alternatives to those taxes proposed by the governor," Anderson said. "There were several suggestions, including lowering the sales tax and eliminating exemptions in that tax."

Other highlights: Flag—Two bills introduced in the House and one in the Senate to provide stiff penalties for desecration of the American Flag or Pennsylvania Flag.

Loyalty—The Senate passed and sent to the governor a bill amending the Pennsylvania Loyalty Oath. The change softens the language to protect it from being declared unconstitutional by the courts. State employees, including teachers, are required to take the oath.

Constitution—Four bills proposing amendments to Pennsylvania's constitution were released to the Senate floor. Included was one to put a six-month limit on the length of a legislative session.

Fairness is "Must"

(C) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — A federal appeals court upheld today the constitutionality of government requirements that radio and television stations must give free time to persons who wish to answer broadcasts attacking them or presenting one-sided views of public issues.

The so-called "fairness doctrine," contained in the Federal Communications Commission, was upheld by the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia by a 2-0 vote, with one judge not participating.

The test of the constitutionality of the fairness doctrine arose out of a broadcast made over radio station WGBE AM-FM, in Red Lion, Pa., by Rev. Billy James Hargis, who is generally considered to be a member of the political rightwing.

House Passes $70 Billion War Bill

(C) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — The House passed yesterday a $70.3 billion defense money bill, described by congressional leaders as the largest single legislative appropriation in world history.

The vote was 407 to 1, sending the bill to the Senate. The single vote against was cast by George E. Brown, D-Calif. Included is $20.3 billion attributable to the war in Vietnam. However, both Democrats and Republicans predicted that additional billions of dollars would have to be appropriated later to finance the war in the fiscal year starting July 1.

NOT ALL HEED CALL

Arabs Call For Retaliation, "Oil Warfare"

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Arab press called yesterday for a new arms buildup to seek revenge from Israel and for oil warfare against the United States and Britain, accusing them of backing the Israelis in last week's war.

Al Thawra, the Syrian government newspaper in Damascus, asserted:

"The mission of every Arab today can be summed up in the following words: Prepare for retaliatory fire against the enemy."

Washington reports said the Soviet Union is delivering new shipments of arms to Egypt, including MIG jet fighters, U.S. officials said, however, they are previously scheduled arms shipments.

While the Arab press called for nationalization of U.S. and British oil interests, in addition to oil embargoes, Saudi Arabia seemed to be shipping out of line.

A spokesman for Arabian American Oil Co., which operates in Saudi Arabia, said the company there had returned to normal although the oil embargo against the United States and Britain continues. He said refineries were again operating, and loading of oil tankers began Monday.

Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Iraq and Algeria have banned oil shipments to Britain and the United States.

A spokesman for Caltex said its refineries were running in the Arab shield of Bahrain and production operations were normal in Libya, the North African Arab state.

Even Egypt, which broke relations with the United States at the height of the war, allowed U.S. oilmen to remain to develop the promising oil fields in its western desert.

Cairo's Middle East News Agency said Arab oil producers are ready to let France and Spain replace the British and American oil companies that have developed most of the Middle East oil fields.

Sheik Abdullah Tariki, former Saudi Arabian oil minister, proposed the nationalization of the oil industry in all the Arab states, saying foreign help is no longer needed. He wrote in the newspaper Al Anwar of Beirut, Lebanon's capital, that "oil is our sharpest weapon."

Lebanon's Parliament speaker, Sabry Hamdah, declared Arabs should use all weapons "and petroleum is one of the most important."

In Iraq, which sent planes and troops to the war, Mohammed Al Saidi, minister of economy, said his government was thinking of breaking trade relations with the United States and Britain, the Middle East News Agency reported.

Sudan's government was said to have ordered Shell and the British Petroleum refinery at Port Sudan placed under government control.

Mohammed Mahjoub, commissioner general of the Arab League's Boycott of Israel Office, issued a statement in Damascus urging an oil and trade boycott that he said would cost the United States and Britain billions of dollars.

The Soviet Union pressed its campaign to force Israel to give up the strategic gains it won in the six-day war. It requested an emergency session of the U.N.

General Assembly to press its demand.

In the aftermath of the war, that left the economies of Egypt, Syria and Jordan near collapse, funds were pouring in from other Arab states.

A compilation in Beirut showed $70,780,000 donated so far, the bulk of it a $70-million gift from oil-rich Kuwait to Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Iraq. In addition, truckloads of medicine, food, clothing, blankets and tents are arriving in Jordan and Syria to help care for the thousands of Arab refugees from the battle zones.

Most of these supplies came from Saudi Arabia, Lebanon and Iran. Iran is not Arabic, but is a Moslem state.

Help also was badly needed in Egypt, where the Suez Canal has been closed to shipping since the war broke out June 5. Egypt says Israeli bombers sank ships that blocked the 104-mile canal, from which it hoped to obtain $230 million in badly needed foreign exchange this year. British shipping sources said the canal is blocked by a sunken ship near Suez at the southern end of the waterway. Emaciated Egyptian soldiers were returning to Cairo from the Sinai Desert, where Egypt lost the decisive battle to Israel. Some soldiers charged the Israelis disarmed them but refused to provide them with water or food for the long march to Cairo. Israeli soldiers back from Sinai said thousands of starving Egyptian stragglers are roaming the desert, begging and killing for food and water.

Banker Guilty

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Joy Fortney, a former Altoona bank manager, was found guilty of embezzlement Tuesday. Fortney, former manager of the First National Bank of Altoona, had pleaded innocent of misapplying $22,935. The U.S. District Court jury reached its verdict after two hours of deliberation.

Arab Refugees Pose UN Problem

By JUAN DE ONIS
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—Jordan, backed by the Soviet Union, accused Israel today of driving thousands of Arabs out of occupied Jordanian territory in a "pattern embarked upon in 1948" when Israel was created.

A report from the U.N. relief and works agency for Palestine refugees said 80,000 Arabs, among some 400,000 on United Nations relief rolls in West Jordan, were "believed to have moved out" after the region was occupied by Israel.

Laurence Michelmore, commissioner-general of the Palestine Refugee Agency (UNRWA) said that as an emergency measure he had authorized "feeding and medical services urgently needed on humanitarian grounds" for new refugees appearing at U.N. camps in West Jordan and the Gaza Strip.

Mordecai R. Kidron of Israel said that some civilians had moved out of West Jordan during the fighting, but that a "large-scale return movement from east to west had now begun."

"Israeli authorities are doing nothing to prevent this," he added.

Kidron said Israel was co-operating with U.N. and voluntary agencies that provide assistance to Palestine refugees from earlier Arab-Israeli conflicts.

Michelmore, who is touring refugee camps in the Israeli-occupied areas, appealed to governments and private donors to "come to the aid of the refugee victims of the conflict."

He asked for contributions to UNRWA emergency medical supplies and funds for tents, blankets and the replacement of vehicles lost in the war. This 18-year-old problem began when Palestinian Arabs left the territory of the new state of Israel during the fighting with its Arab neighbors in 1948. There were fewer than 1 million refugees when UNRWA was set up in 1950. Now the number on relief is 1.3 million. Half the refugees are less than 18 years old.

Egypt Jails 600 Jews, Rabbi Claims

(c) N. Y. Times News Service
GENEVA — An American Jewish leader said yesterday that 600 Jewish males, including Grand Rabbi Jacques Neufuss of Cairo, are being held in Egyptian jails as a sequel to the war between Israel and the Arab States.

Zacharias Schuster, European director of the American Jewish Committee, added that most of the imprisoned Jews, although born in Egypt, were stateless and hence had no governments to intervene in their behalf.

Only those of Italian or Greek nationality have been allowed to leave Egypt, he said.

About 300 Jewish males are being held in "El Barrage," a prison near Alexandria, and another 300 in a prison near Cairo, Schuster said.

According to Schuster, the women and children among the 2,500 Jewish residents of Egypt have not been molested. However, he said, most Jews taken into custody have been beaten, and some reported broken fingers and other injuries.

Blonde Wants Females As Game Protectors

HARRISBURG (AP) — A brown-eyed, ash blonde from Scranton appeared before the house game and fisheries committee Tuesday and urged enactment of legislation that would allow women to become state game protectors.

Elaine (Teri) Margitich, 20, asked the committee to release a bill sponsored by a Lackawanna County Democrat which would clear the way for her applying for such a position.

"I believe it is discriminatory not to allow women to serve as game protectors," Miss Margitich told newsmen after her meeting with the committee.

The proposed legislation was introduced March 1 by Rep. Michael J. Needham and three other lawmakers, including two Republicans.

Miss Margitich said she has tried to apply as a game protector for the past two years, but that the Game Commission has tried to discourage her.

Teen Pleads Guilty to Murder Charge

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — A teen-ager pleaded guilty to murder yesterday in the strangulation and stabbing of his 55-year-old cousin.

David L. Day, 17, of Washington, who had been in jail since the Dec. 13 slaying, entered the plea before Washington County Judge Barron P. McCune.

The judge said a hearing to determine the degree of guilt will be held in about two weeks. Elizabeth Vankirk, 55, was strangled with a belt and shot in her Washington home.

Our Roads Bulging With Cars

Our population explosion combined with our exploding prosperity automatically assures us that more and more men and women will seek to drive motor vehicles. As we earn more and as more of us become responsible citizens creating wealth in our endeavors—as more and more of our young people create, not only a greater market for all products, but new products as well—as all of these things occur—we Americans spend more money to see more of our nation, to travel more and more. And we do this with motor vehicles. . . .

While statistics have never been known to save lives, let's quote a few for serious consideration.

So why are Pennsylvania highways bulging with traffic? Why is it difficult to find a parking space for your car? Why does the Bureau of Traffic Safety continuously stress highway and pedestrian safety? Let us take a good look at a 30 year record of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles, Department of Revenue, for the period 1936 to 1966, which includes vehicle registrations, licensed operators and revenue received by the Bureau from all sources.

In 1936 a total of 1,918,116 passenger cars and commercial vehicles were registered in the Commonwealth, compared with 5,061,195 vehicle registrations in 1966, a gain of 3,143,079. In 1936 a total of 5,868 motor buses and omnibuses were registered, compared with 16,485 registered in 1966, a gain of 10,617.

Noteworthy is the decided increase in registered motorcycles, from 11,914 in 1936 to 77,172 in 1966, and registered trailers from 30,392 in 1936 to 159,313 in 1966. With these overall increased vehicle registrations, the Bureau of Motor Vehicles reported an increase of licensed operators, from 2,421,023 in 1936 to 6,147,796 in 1966, a gain of 3,726,773. Total receipts from all sources increased from $35,330,900.14 in 1936 to $111,596,081.22 in 1966 or an annual increase of $76,265,181.08 in total revenue received.

The average number of miles driven last year for each Pennsylvania motorist was 7,300 miles. Multiply 7,300 by 6,147,796 licensed Pennsylvania drivers and you have a staggering figure of 448,789,940,000 miles of travel on our roads.

“..and God Spake Unto Israel”

(C) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — The best inside story on the Middle Eastern war so far is in the 46th chapter of the Book of Genesis, the Second to the Sixth Verses: “And God spake unto Israel, in the visions of the night, and said, . . . fear not to go down into Egypt; for I will there make of thee a great nation. I will go down with thee into Egypt, and I will also surely bring thee up again . . .”

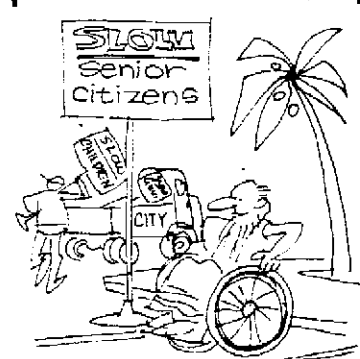

Reston

The Arabs are talking about going back to the same boundaries and the same state of belligerency, as if they had won the war. The Russians are backing the Arabs diplomatically and threatening Tel Aviv. President Johnson repeated yesterday his commitment to the territorial integrity of all states in the Middle East, and the Christian and Moslem religious leaders are not happy with Israel's claims to sovereignty over all of Jerusalem. In the face of this elaborate Arab camouflage of realities, Israel will need plenty of help if she is not to lose once more through diplomacy the

SCIENCE SKETCH

BY 1980 there will be 24.5 million people in the United States over the age of 65. In 1966, reports the National Council on Aging, the U.S. had 18.5 million people 65 years old or older.

relief she has gained by force of arms. And her main outside hope for help in the wordy war now starting lies here in Washington.

The Johnson Administration is moving into this diplomatic thicket very cautiously, but it is clear about its first objective. This is that a return to the old state of belligerency is intolerable and that the first objective should be a genuine peace settlement which would guarantee Israel's sovereign rights of passage through the Gulf of Aqaba and the Suez Canal.

These were denied her by the United Arab Republic on the ground that the U.A.R. was still in a state of war with Israel and therefore had the right to blockade her maritime traffic and boycott her trade.

President Johnson seemed to be saying in his news conference this week that while he still favored the territorial integrity of all the states in that area, this commitment depended on the establishment of “peace in the area.”

This position was made more explicit in the U.S. resolution in the United Nations Security Council. It stated as its aim “the establishment of viable arrangements encompassing the withdrawal and disengagement of armed personnel, the renunciation of force regardless of its nature, the maintenance of vital international rights and the establishment of a stable and durable peace in the Middle East.”

Against this, the Soviet Union seems to have as its first objective a return to the situation that existed before the present crisis; that is to say, the withdrawal of the Israeli forces behind the old boundaries and a return to the Arab state of belligerency.

Israel obviously is not going to tolerate this, and Washington is not going to ask her to consider it. Thus, the U.S. and the Soviet Union, for all the talk about their cooperation to keep the Arab-Israeli war from spreading last week, are now actually further apart than they were at the end of the 1956 war in the Middle East.

In a note dated Feb. 11, 1957, the Soviet Union proposed that the U.S., the U.S.S.R., Britain, and France sign a declaration of basic principles to govern their policies in the Near and Middle East. These were, textually, as follows:

1. The preservation of peace in the Near and Middle East by settling outstanding questions exclusively by peaceful means and by the method of negotiations;

2. Noninterference in the internal affairs of Middle Eastern countries, and respect for their sovereignty and independence;

3. Renunciation of all attempts to involve these countries in military blocs with the participation of the great powers;

4. Liquidation of foreign bases and withdrawal of foreign troops from the territory of middle eastern countries;

5. Reciprocal refusal to deliver arms to Middle Eastern countries;

6. Promotion of the Middle Eastern nations' economic development without attaching any political, military or other terms incompatible with the dignity and sovereignty of these countries.

It would be interesting to know whether the Soviet Union still regards these principles as applicable to this region for, if faithfully implemented, they would be a better basis for discussion than the present contradictory resolutions now before the United Nations.

C. L. SULZBERGER De Gaulle's Industrial Reform Plan

(C) N. Y. Times News Service
CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—Within a short time Gen. De Gaulle plans to use the special powers begrudgingly granted him by the National Assembly to start a social and economic reform in France. An integral text for this has been drawn by Prime Minister Pompidou and will be presented this month.

Since the end of World War II, De Gaulle has been preoccupied with modernizing France's antiquated labor-capital relationships and developing incentives to stimulate production.

Originally he pondered a system of worker-employer associations. After De Gaulle relinquished power in 1946 some of his lieutenants, including Jacques Baumel, now secretary-general of the Gaullist political organization, and Jacques Soustelle, a former Gaullist who became the general's sworn enemy, investigated various formulas linking paychecks to productivity.

These particular ideas have now been discarded except in Gaullism's mythology, but De Gaulle would like to use his second presidential term to revolutionize France's somewhat creaking social structure. Recent cabinet debates have featured differences between Pompidou, who stresses immediate progress, and Finance Minister Debre who argues for a long-range plan not taking effect before three years.

Pompidou's views have prevailed. He wants to offer employers and labor unions a specific system of sharing profits in each enterprise and distributing the proceeds of increased output on an equitable basis.

What he has in mind is roughly as follows: Each enterprise would hold back a share of its earnings for distribution among its workers in a form equivalent to common stock. In this way employees would feel more direct participation in the profits of their own labor. Americans, with their very widespread common stock holdings, might not see this as very revolutionary but it would come as a drastic change in French methods.

The expected Gaullist reform wouldn't link pay directly to productivity in the sense that pay would rise with increased production and decline with decreased production. In certain industries such a system already exists in theory but it does not function when output shrinks.

The proposed program hopes to cater to a curious phenomenon: The French workman rarely protests against speed-up methods so long as an extra bonus is offered. Strikes against speed-ups are uncommon in France. So long as additional profit is offered, there seems to be an enormous appetite for work. The Gaullist theory is that this appetite must now be used to achieve social reform, sharing ownership more equitably with labor, while eliminating threats of industrial stagnation.

There is no real unemployment problem in France and only recently the state had to intervene to prevent a Dunkirk enterprise from extending its work-week to 60 hours. The present regime hopes to harness this will to work more for more profit by spreading ownership through withheld common stocks assigned on a proportionate basis to a particular industry's workers.

The French stock market or Bourse has never managed to market securities on a widespread basis as Wall Street does in the U.S.A. Old people seem to prefer investing their savings in bonds—despite years of intermittent devaluation and inflation. There is still an almost blind public recollection that many present-day French fortunes were made in state bonds a century or more ago. The younger generation spends on cars or holidays—not on the future.

The government, therefore, wants to force distribution of a form of common stock. The formula is that a profitable enterprise shall use one portion of earnings for regular salaries; one portion for reinvestment in the enterprise itself; one portion for stockholders' dividends. The rest—a fixed percentage—would be set aside in the name of the enterprise's workers. This portion, held back and reinvested in the enterprise, would be distributed to the workers at fixed periods. It will take time for this idea to win popular acceptance. It is still suspected as “dangerous” by many employers and regarded skeptically by influential labor unions. French unions like immediate pay gains which can be advertised as tangible to their members.

Nevertheless, the regime reckons it is risky for any politician to oppose its reform program. For this reason, it calculates the economic plan will favor De Gaulle's political hope to arrange an ultimate succession to his own presidency.

Group's Integrity Impugned

WASHINGTON — Sen. Russell Long, D-La., got so impassioned in his defense of Sen. Tom Dodd the other day that he delivered a scorching attack on the Senate Ethics Committee because it had recommended Dodd's censure. Long said the committee had censured Dodd because it feared criticism from this column if it failed to do so.

Later Sen. Long delivered a lame apology to the Ethics Committee; but there was no apology for charging us with blackmail.

On a point of personal privilege, therefore, we should like to report on the six members of the Senate Ethics Committee and what we have said about them in the past.

All are conscientious, hard-working Senators entrusted with a job extremely distasteful to them, that of passing judgment on a fellow Senator. While they overlooked many of Dodd's weaknesses and leaned over backwards to be fair to him, nevertheless they were airtight in the findings which they made.

Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi, the Democratic chairman, we have reported to be “a courtly philosopher, with such a reputation for fairness that he's been in the presiding officer's chair more than Allen Barkley. No noisy demagogue like his predecessor Bo Bilbo, he says that the wage-hour law was a boon to the South by raising its economic level . . . At a prayer breakfast where Democrats and Republicans forgot religious differences as well as political ones, Stennis sounded the keynote by calling for a return to spirituality.”

This column has sometimes reported critically regarding Sen. Stennis's position on civil rights, but never regarding his honesty and fairness.

Sen. Wallace Bennett, Republican co-chairman of the Ethics Committee, is married to the daughter of the late Heber Grant, president of the (Second of Two Parts)

HARRISBURG — Within the space of the past year this column has received a steadily increasing volume of complaints from upstate motorists cited for traffic violations in Philadelphia, apparently from those throughout the state who recalled the ruckus of three years ago when this column brought the racket into focus.

Added to these have been letters from lawmakers from across the state (who apparently also remembered the 1964 traffic ticket ruckus exposed by this column) with enclosures of citations of constituents, affidavits, etc.

In all of this there is of course excuse for small error on the part of local police who may copy down the wrong number—but certainly not in the volume of false traffic citations that flows daily from Philadelphia!

The great herds of vicuna have almost vanished from the high Andes. Peru, Argentina and Chile now are seeking to protect from hunters the vicuna and guanaco, the only wild members of the camel family left in the New World.

The Hump was the name applied to the Himalayas by pilots flying aid to China in World War II.

Mormon Church. Bennett for many years taught in the Mormon Sunday School of the Chevy Chase Chapel and today, though he no longer teaches, is a regular attendant.

We have reported that Bennett is the former president of the National Manufacturers Association and follows the conservative policies of that organization. He has been opposed to most of the economic policies of the Truman, Kennedy and Johnson administrations, but he has been consistent and honest in that opposition.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., is a former governor of Kentucky, former ambassador to India where he did an outstanding job, and has held many special diplomatic posts.

We have reported that Sen. Cooper follows a broad bipartisan policy on foreign affairs and frequently has been called in by Democratic presidents for consultation. He was especially useful in advising Kennedy how to handle the Berlin problem at the very start of his administration, though Kennedy spurned the advice.

Sen. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., has served in Congress longer than any other member of the Ethics Committee. As a young member of the House of Representatives, he received the Collier's Distinguished Service Award for his work in attempting to streamline legislative procedures. He was co-author of the Congressional reorganization bill with the late Sen. Robert La Follette and more recently sponsored a bill for Senate reorganization.

As a young Congressman, Monroney had the courage to vote against an oil price increase though he comes from a big oil-producing state, and against the farm bloc on subsidies though Oklahoma is also an important agricultural state.

We reported how President Truman offered Monroney the job of Secretary of Agriculture, which Monroney declined on the ground that he didn't know enough about agriculture. He never capitalized on Truman's job offer.

False Traffic Citations

Pennsylvania's other large city—Pittsburgh, for example—makes what seemingly are legitimate errors, but the “errors” aren't even remotely in the volume to be found from Philadelphia.

In fact a Pittsburgh woman who has never driven to Philadelphia the other day found herself the recipient of her 12th bogus traffic summons from the late Ben Franklin's habitat!

For the past several months the Beaver Falls News-Tribune in the western part of the state has been editorializing on the subject and publishing report after report of Beaver counties caught in the phony Philadelphia traffic ticket racket. The News-Tribune has urged an investigation.

This column joins in urging a legislative investigation—but this time hopefully to a conclusion other than the last abortive flyer in this direction in 1964!

A resolution already has been introduced on this point. That was back on January 31—and it's still in the House Rules Committee to which referred!

This resolution would set up a House probe committee (seven members) “to study and investigate the issuance of false summonses by the traffic courts of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. . . and to make a report of its findings to the House of Representatives as soon as its study has been completed.”

There's another piece of legislation—this one in the Senate—on the same subject. It has the virility of a waterbug in a

On 'Forced Savings'

“On New Year's morning, my husband and I vowed to save $50 a month, about 10 per cent of his take-home pay. But in the past few weeks an unexpected bunch of expenses has wiped it all out. This has happened over and over again to us, with the result that we haven't accumulated one extra dollar in the past five years. Is there any cure for the habitual non-saver?”

This plea is far more typical of Americans than swollen figures on total savings suggest. This is the sort of letter, in fact, which highlights the fact that despite our record volume of overall savings, a full one-third or more of U.S. families have no savings at all—in the form of bank deposits, stocks or bonds—and for millions of other families, the savings total is less than $500.

If you are among the millions who have been unable to stick to voluntary savings plans, your best answer may be a form of “forced savings.” There are literally dozens of different ways to discipline yourself into saving today, through bank accounts, insurance policies, stock purchase plans. Here is a sampling.

1. An automatic deduction plan from your checking account is offered by many banks today. Under this plan, you authorize the bank to transfer to a simple savings account some specified sum at fixed intervals. You will receive the bank's stated interest rate on the amounts you accumulate in your savings account. You may also authorize the bank to invest your specified sums in U.S. savings bonds and notes.

2. Payroll savings plans are offered by many corporations under which a portion of your paycheck is automatically deducted (by your authorization) and invested in U.S. savings bonds or deposited in a special bank savings account. If your deduction is regularly invested in savings bonds or notes, an advantage is that you don't have to pay any Federal income tax on the interest until you actually cash in the bonds.

3. Under other corporate employee savings plans now available to millions, a corporation may add a percentage contribution to the amount you authorize to be deducted regularly from your paycheck. Your savings then may be invested in savings bonds, company stock or other securities.

One in five manufacturing companies listed on the New York Stock Exchange also offers plans under which you can buy the company's own stock under favorable terms to you and thus, accumulate a stake in your employer's progress.

4. Permanent life insurance provides you not only with life insurance protection but also with a growing cash surrender value against which you can borrow at reasonable rates when essential.

5. Periodic stock buying plans are an excellent way to build a nestegg in a stock or stocks of your own choice. One well-known illustration is the Monthly Investment Plan of the New York Stock Exchange through which you can invest as little as $40 every three months. The price you pay for your shares will average out over the long run and your investment probably will grow substantially.

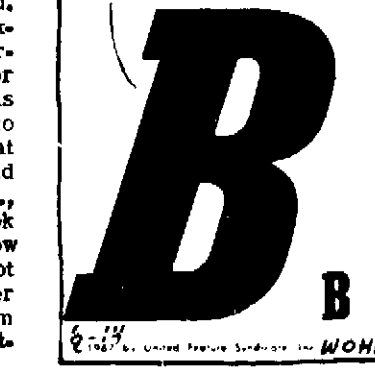

6. Saving by borrowing from a bank is a method which puts you under legal obligation to repay (and thus, save) in regular installments. But you must pay interest on these loans, of course—and must invest your borrowed funds successfully in order to come out ahead in the end.

The “secret” to saving, no matter what system you choose, is to put aside little amounts regularly and let the little amounts mount up to big totals. The “secret” behind this secret is to arrange to have the money taken from your paycheck before you get your hands on it.

The errors however are too great to be overlooked. There's got to be some collusion somewhere along the line to produce the phony in the first place.

The Legislature is the logical place for an investigation to begin—not the realm of some bureaucratic flunky—and the logical place for it to end.

When Philadelphia sends tickets for parking to a motorist who hasn't owned a car for five years, or to one who has been dead for two years, or to a woman in the hospital, at home giving birth to a child on the date cited, etc., etc., it's past time for a deep look at the picture. An error now and then can be forgiven—but not in the great volume that over the years has been flowing from Philadelphia to upstaters outside the great city.

Visit With Jimmy Brown

(C) N.Y. Times News Service

NEW YORK -- Jimmy Brown looks fit enough and trim enough to resume his abandoned career as fullback of the Cleveland Browns. But he has not the slightest intention of doing so because he finds his new life as an actor just as rewarding and satisfying. Besides it offers a more enduring future than the one which would face a 31-year old fullback, even one of superstar status.

"I could play right now," he said brightly yesterday, lounging comfortably in an overstuffed chair in his hotel suite. "I'm three pounds under my normal playing weight of 228. That's the way I want it. I prefer to have people say, 'You're in shape,' instead of 'Hey, have you gotten fat!'"

The last time this reporter saw Jimmy was last summer on a movie set just north of London during the shooting of "The Dirty Dozen", a cinema offering which will have its premiere in a couple of days. In his spare time the freshly retired fullback even kept in condition by accompanying his friend, Cassius Clay, on some of the champion's roadwork jogs in Hyde Park.

Jimmy talked about football, movies, life in general and Cassius in particular. He even talked about a little-publicized meeting a group of prominent negro athletes had with the troubled heavyweight champion in Cleveland recently for a free discussion of Clay's refusal to accept draft induction despite the imminence of a jail sentence.

"I had him out to my house for dinner the night before," said Jimmy. "And I don't think he'll budge. We approached him on the basis that we were his friends, willing to give him any assistance we could. No one would pressure him. It would be a give-and-take, pro-and-con discussion."

"There were fellows like Bill Russell, Lew Alcindor, John Wooten, Bobby Mitchell, Curtis McClinton, Willie Davis and fellows like that. I think the Clay situation has been played up in the press out of all proportion. It's a sport and it's nice. But it's something we all can do without."

"What I would rather have people concerned about are juries in the South that make a mockery out of our court system or a murderer acquitted in the South and writing a magazine article about how he did it. Such injustices are more important to the future of our country than the draft status of Muhammad Ali -- or, if you prefer, Cassius Clay."

"He's extremely religious and with people like that religion comes first. What do you do with a man's belief? You leave it alone."

Jimmy talked with a crusader's intensity when he dwelt on this subject but was relaxed and at ease as he talked about his own career, past and present. Bad weather in Britain a year ago had delayed the picture by two months and forced him to quit the Browns a season earlier than he had planned.

"I think I quit just in time," he said. "I escaped without knee injuries and while still in my prime. I never had to undergo the tremendous loneliness of sitting on the bench, wondering whether I'd slowed down so much that they might not use me any more."

"The season was a quarter over when I got back to Cleveland and saw the Browns live for the first time. I didn't go to the dressing room. That's not my style. I've seen old-timers come into the clubhouse before a game and I just wasn't interested in them. I was too wrapped up in what might happen that afternoon, so much so that I even could be rude to them even though I could greet them warmly afterwards."

"I had my pre-game idiosyncracies. I did things certain ways. I got into part of my uniform at one point and another part at another point. I walked around. I thought. It was a mental thing with me. I'd think of the 18 or 19 sweep and of the four things that might happen, starting with the one most likely to happen and ending with the least likely. I loved those sweeps. Because I felt that visitors were disruptive, I stayed away."

Since he had been the greatest ground-gainer in football history, Jimmy must have had some qualms before abandoning the certainties of the gridiron for the uncertainties of the movies.

"Of course I did," he said. "However, we had such an outstanding cast of name stars in the 'The Dirty Dozen,' including several Oscar winners, that I learned faster than I had any right to learn. We had a great director in Bob Aldrich. But just as I began to feel that pressure most and wonder if I was a good enough actor, Kenny Hyman, our producer, came to me with the script for another movie and offered me a part in it. To me this was a mark of approval. It resolved my mind."

It will be a long time, however, before the skills of Jimmy Brown, the actor, can come close to matching those of Jimmy Brown, the fullback extraordinary.

FUTURE BUC CATCHER

Craig Conti, 3-year-old son of Warren Beverage catcher Guy Conti, showed up in full uniform at Saturday's Pittsburgh Pirates' trout camp at War Memorial Field and got the once-over from Buc scout Joe Frisina of Corry. Young Conti, a southpaw, was impressive enough to earn an autographed baseball for his performance. (Photo by Steele)

Large & Smallmouth Bass Season Opening Saturday

HARRISBURG -- The bass, size for size the toughest battler of all fresh water fishes, will make his debut when the Pennsylvania bass season opens Saturday, June 17, according to Robert J. Bielo, executive director of the Pennsylvania Fish Commission.

OPENING DAY FACTS:
Species: Largemouth and smallmouth bass
Season: 1:00 a.m., DST, June 17, 1967 to midnight, March 14, 1968
Minimum Size: Nine (9) inches

Creel Limit: Six (6) combined species

Both species will hit anything that flies, squirms, crawls, spins, gurgles or pops. The largemouth bass usually will strike the surface lures and flies more consistently than the smallmouth. On the other hand, whether the smallmouth takes a surface lure or one of the deeper running varieties, he is far more likely to break water in the ensuing battle between angler and fish. Minnows, worms, hellgrammites, crayfish and other live baits often are as attractive to bass as the artificials.

In general, the smallmouth will be found in the swifter running streams and in the larger and deeper lakes. The largemouth shows a definite preference for slow-moving waters of large streams and is perfectly at home in the mud bottom shallows of lakes and ponds where there is an abundance of aquatic vegetation. They have been successfully introduced by the Pennsylvania Fish Commission into the man-made impoundments which include shallow, warm water areas.

Regardless of where you may live, there's good bass fishing to be found within easy driving distance.

In Northwestern Pennsylvania there is Presque Isle Bay, Edinboro Lake, Conneaut Lake, Lake Erie, French Creek, the Allegheny River and the Tionesta Flood Control Reservoir.

Northcentral Pennsylvania's Hills Creek Lake in Tioga County is a good bass spot, as are the lower reaches of Pine Creek, Kettle Creek, the Allegheny River, Black Moshannon Dam, the Susquehanna River, Lake Jean and Harveys Lake.

Glendale Lake, Neshannock Creek, Glade Run Lake, North Park Lake, Raccoon Lake, Dutch Fork and Canansburg Lakes, South Fork of Ten Mile Creek, Keystone Lake, the Youghiogheny Reservoir, Virgin Run Lake and Somerset Lake provide topnotch bass angling in Southwestern Pennsylvania.

Southcentral Pennsylvania has many acres of good bass waters, including Koon, Gordon and Shawnee Lakes, Raystone Dam and Raystown Branch, Juniata River, Shermans Creek, Cowan's Gap Dam and the Fish Commission's Opossum Lake. The Southeast region is blessed with some of the finest bass fishing in the Commonwealth in the lakes and tailraces formed by the Susquehanna River power dams, as well as the Susquehanna and Delaware Rivers, Sweet Arrow Lake, Lake Ontelaunee, Glendene Lake, Neshannock Creek, Glade Run Lake, North Park Lake, Raccoon Lake, Dutch Fork and Canansburg Lakes, South Fork of Ten Mile Creek, Keystone Lake, the Youghiogheny Reservoir, Virgin Run Lake and Somerset Lake provide topnotch bass angling in Southwestern Pennsylvania.

Hughes Sparks Cards over Buccos

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pitcher Dick Hughes scored a run in a three-run second inning, singled in the final run of a three-run third and then staved off Pittsburgh as the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Pirates 7-4 last night.

Hughes reached second base on a fielder's choice in the second inning after a walk and Julian Javier's single, and then Lou Brock slammed a two-run safety. Curt Flood, who doubled and scored on Orlando Cepeda's hit in the first, drove in the third run of the inning with a single.

Hughes capped the third with his hit after the Cardinals loaded the bases on singles by Cepeda and Javier and a walk and scored on Dal Maxvill's sacrifice fly and Roberto Clemente's throwing error.

Giants-Astros

HOUSTON (AP) — Willie Mays' grand slam homer in the 10th inning propelled the San Francisco Giants to a 6-2 victory over the Houston Astros last night.

Mays crashed his 550th career homer — and seventh grand slam — off reliever Barry Latman with two out in the 10th after two walks around Willie McCovey's single filled the bases.

The homer was No. 8 this season for Mays, who entered the game as a pinch hitter with the bases loaded in the sixth inning and bounced into a double play.

Jim Hart's eighth inning homer off Houston starter Dave Giusti lifted the Giants into a 2-2 tie.

The Astros took a 2-1 lead in the second when shortstop Hal Lanier booted Bob Aspromonte's grounder and Giusti slammed his second major league homer.

But three San Francisco pitchers—Joe Gibbon, Ron Herbel and Mike McCormick—limited the Astros to three more hits, with McCormick working the final four innings to earn his fifth victory in eight decisions.

Builders' Strike Is 3-State Mess

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
PITTSBURGH (AP) — Excavation for Bell Telephone Co.'s new 16-story equipment building in downtown Pittsburgh has ground to a halt. A few blocks away, men work high steel for a 40-story office building in the summer heat.

The situation is the same throughout western Pennsylvania, eastern Ohio and northern West Virginia, where a strike by nine building trades unions rounds out its second full week Wednesday. Work on some projects continues, while on others—a billion dollars' worth—it has come to a standstill in a welter of issues.

One union wants longer coffee breaks, another the right to name job stewards. All want more money. Industrywide bargaining has broken down.

Caught in the middle are dozens of projects—schools, dams, power plants, bridges and office buildings.

The strike began May 31 when the unions' contracts reached their common expiration date. Within a few days 25,000 carpenters, ironworkers, boiler-makers, operating engineers, painters, bricklayers, lathers, stone masons and roofers were off the job.

Work is halted on jobs where unions have agreements with local contracting associations. On projects involving national or independent contractors, work continues.

Industrywide bargaining, planned to consolidate both labor and management's bargaining power, never got started this year.

"Outlandish settlements such as a $2.20 an hour increase granted by a union in Cleveland and settlements of $1.65 to $1.80 by crafts in California and Arizona killed industrywide bargaining this year," a high union official said in Pittsburgh.

"The craft unions felt they'd be in a better bargaining position to negotiate on their own," he said.

Another factor drawing out the strike, the spokesman said, is aggressive new leadership in some of the craft unions. In addition, altering contract language to include coffee breaks, safety conditions, the right to name a job steward, more cleanup time, longer lunch hours and paid vacations is a tedious process.

Also construction work in the tri-state area the past few years has been plentiful and "in times of abundance, the rank and file becomes more demanding," the spokesman said.

As bargaining talks continued sporadically throughout the past 12 days, some locals reached settlements. The plumbers and steam-fitters in Pittsburgh and in Beaver County and the operating engineers in the Johnstown area settled on a $1.50 an hour package over three years.

Unions still out, however, are aiming to crack the so-called "$1.20-an-hour barrier" with their eyes fixed on contracts won by craft unions in other parts of the country.

Horn, Guard Avert Mishap

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A school crossing guard was about to let a cluster of elementary pupils across the street Tuesday when she heard a horn blowing and looked up to see a car barreling downhill toward the intersection.

"I blew my whistle hard," said Mildred Zandier. She threw up her arms to prevent the children from crossing.

The car shot through the intersection and stopped harmlessly in a lawn.

The driver, Steve Miesmash, 30, of suburban Greentree said his brakes failed and he leaned on the horn to warn Mrs. Zandier.

"God and the light must have been in his favor," said Mrs. Zandier.

Methodists Give $30 Million in '66-'67 Year

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—The Methodist Church reported yesterday its members gave $35,230,243 during the 1966-67 fiscal year to carry on the national and worldwide programs of the church.

This does not include sums given for expenses and programs of local churches or regional conferences.

The Rev. Dr. Don A. Cooke, general treasurer, said the $35,230,243 is a drop of 1.12 per cent of $397,488, under what was given the preceding fiscal year.

MEET AT NATO COUNCIL

U.S. Britain Want Arms Sales Halt in Mideast

By CLYDE H. FARNSWORTH
(c) N. Y. Times News Service
LUXEMBOURG CITY—United States Secretary of State Dean Rusk and British Foreign Secretary George Brown said yesterday that the limitation of arms sales in the Middle East was essential to bring peace to the area.

In addressing a meeting of the ministerial council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, both Rusk and Brown said they did not expect quick solutions to the diplomatic problems that have arisen after the six-day Arab-Israeli war.

Rusk said there must be a solution to the Palestine refugee problem and added that the state of belligerency between Egypt and Israel should be modified or must be modified to permit Israeli shipping in the Suez Canal and the Gulf of Aqaba.

He felt that the U.S. and the Soviet Union should try to come to some agreement to scale down arms deliveries to the Middle East with the aim of achieving some degree of disarmament in the area.

The British Foreign Secretary said that U.N. peacekeeping had lost credibility because of the "over-hasty" withdrawal of the U.N. peacekeeping force in the area by Secretary General Thant.

RCA Workers May Strike Next Week

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Representatives of both sides yesterday continued negotiations aimed at preventing a threatened strike of 20,000 Radio Corp. of America employees next Monday.

Federal mediator John R. Murray joined in the talks with negotiators from RCA and the International Union of Electrical Workers. Negotiations lasted eight hours Monday, and Murray said both sides were still far apart on agreement.

At issue is a union demand for higher wages in the current four-year contract. Hourly salaries now range from $2.12 to $2.69.

The bargaining affects some 8,000 IUE production and maintenance employees in RCA plants in nearby Camden and Moorestown, N.J.

Israeli Politics May Dump Premier

By SYDNEY GRUSON
(c) N. Y. Times News Service
JERUSALEM—A sharp political struggle is simmering beneath the unity produced in Israel by last week's triumphant six-day war against Egypt, Jordan and Syria.

Whether the struggle boils into the open depends on how successfully Premier Levi Eshkol and Foreign Minister Abba Eban withstand the expected diplomatic onslaught to make the Israelis disgorge the territory they conquered from the Arabs.

Eshkol has stilled his critics for the moment by the hard line he laid down in the Knesset (parliament) Monday.

He told the parliament that Israel was not prepared to return to the pre-war territorial situation, and that Israel would determine how her "true and vital interests... shall be secured."

The alignment of political forces in Israel is not such that Eshkol or Eban could be forced out of office against the will of their majority party, Mapai. There have been editorial suggestions that both men should resign, but these are not taken seriously at this time.

However, it was public opinion that forced Eshkol to take Gen. Moshe Dayan into the cabinet as defense minister only a few days before war broke out.

Public opinion is a new factor in Israeli politics and it could come into play again. The country feels that Dayan, who is not the most loved of men among politicians or even among the military, is capable of whatever decisiveness and sternness are found necessary. Apparently, most persons do not think Eshkol is. And political observers would not be surprised by a clamor for Dayan to lead the nation if Eshkol appears to be bowing to international pressures.

Hassan to See U. S.

(c) N. Y. Times News Service
CAIRO—King Hassan II of Morocco will probably visit the United States in the next few days as part of an Arab campaign to persuade the West to make Israel relinquish her war gains, informed Egyptian sources said yesterday.

The sources said that Hassan would have the support of President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic, and of other Arab leaders in his mission, which is considered here as a counterpoint to the visit of the Algerian president, Houari Boumedienne, to Moscow that began Monday.

The sources said Hassan was expected to ask Washington to use its influence to make Israel relinquish all the territory in the U.A.R., Syria and Jordan that she seized during the fighting. However, there was no official confirmation of this.

Accused Slayer Ruled Insane

NORRISTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A judge on Tuesday declared that John Bruno, accused of killing five neighbors, is insane.

Daniel L. Quinlan, representing the 29-year-old Bruno, indicated he would appeal the order of Judge Robert W. Honeyman of the Montgomery County Court.

Vowing to carry the case to the U.S. Supreme Court, Quinlan said he was "not going to sit back and permit Montgomery County law-enforcement to institute a sanity commission for a jury trial."

Highway Bids To Be Opened

HARRISBURG (AP) — The State Highway Department announced yesterday it would open bids June 30 for 30 road and bridge projects estimated to cost $53.4 million.

The department said the total allocated spending was a record for any one bid opening in Pennsylvania or any other state. The projects, located in 23 counties, total 80 miles of construction and improvements.

Major projects include 8.13 miles of Interstate 80 Keystone Shortway in Clinton and Centre counties and 5.63 miles of Interstate 79 Pittsburgh-Erie Freeway in Allegheny and Crawford counties.

The bid opening will not, as far as is known, include any projects in Warren County.

Highway construction projects continue in the surrounding counties of Crawford, McKean, Potter, and Venango.

In Crawford County, construction of a .47 mile strip of Route 6 and 19, on the Perry Highway, between Cambridge Springs and Waterford, is for the purpose of improving alignment and removing hazardous driving conditions.

In McKean and Potter counties, the project is the reconstruction of 9.2 miles of Route 6, including three bridges, from Port Allegheny to

1st Cavalry Slogs It Out in Vietnam

By JONATHAN RANDAL

(c) N.Y. Times News Service BONGSON, South Vietnam—The First Cavalry Division (Airmobile), whose more than 400 helicopters made it the most mobile unit in Vietnam, Monday was involved in a police operation that it found it does best on foot.

The division's mission in a little more than 18 months has changed from that of a fire brigade in the central highlands to one of a steady presence around Bongson, scene of half a dozen earlier battles along the central coastal plain.

Code-named Operation Dragnet, the police effort reflects the American command's realization that the war is going to be long, that machines provide maneuverability but no answers and that only the physical uprooting of the Viet Cong shadow government will produce lasting results.

Operation Dragnet, which is centered on Two Bits, as the forward headquarters of the Air Cavalry Division is called, is a slow business. Since it was launched May 26, a total of 27 hamlets have been cordoned off by troops and then searched by specially trained members of the South Vietnamese police field force.

More than 160 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese soldiers, political cadre and local guerrillas have been arrested. Lt. Col. James Oliver, the division's provost marshal, Monday credited the police with accounting for "more than 50 per cent of the captives the division has taken since May 26."

Theoretically, the operation is limited to cordon off and search twice each of the 143 contested hamlets in the three northernmost districts of

Clarion Youth Drowns

CLARION — Tragedy marred a starlit wiener roast Saturday when an Oil City area youth plunged to his death over a 40-foot embankment to the deep waters of Mill Creek.

The body of 19-year-old Kenneth R. Findlay was recovered by members of the Clarion volunteer fire department in about 20 feet of water.

Findlay had been residing for the past several months at South Hill rd., Bliss, N.Y., where he worked on a farm. He usually returned to Oil City weekends. His family had resided at RD 2, Oil City.

The wiener roast and a boating party at Mill Creek, about five miles from Clarion, climaxed some day-long activities. Most of the group Findlay was with at the time of his death had attended a wedding and reception earlier Saturday in Oil City.

Authorities said that while Findlay was searching for firewood, he accidentally fell over the 40-foot extremely steep bank near the mouth of the creek. Clarion County coroner J. Ward Kier, said the victim fell while reaching for a limb and had probably lost consciousness before reaching the water. He said the body was badly bruised.

A buddy of Findlay's, Ralph Runniger, also of RD 2, Oil City, made an attempt to reach the victim and climbed down over the rugged bank only to find Findlay's wallet and his flashlight.

The alarm was sounded at 11:30 p.m. and the body recovered around 12:20 a.m.

Theatre Set For Summer Plays, Shows

Plowright Playhouse, the Warren area's new summer theater in Scandia, will open June 28.

Plays scheduled for the first season are Frank Guroy's "The Subject Was Roses" followed by Tennessee Williams' "Streetcar Named Desire." From July 26 to Aug. 6 the playhouse will present "Mother Courage," followed by "Two for the Seesaw" Aug. 9 to 20. The last play for the season will be "Madwoman of Chailot," to be presented Aug. 23 to Sept. 3.

Apart from the customary plays which will run two weeks from Wednesday to Sunday, the theater will have a Monday "Vaudeville Night" consisting of routines, singing, dancing and general variety shows.

On July 3rd and 4th, for the first Variety Show, a talent contest will be held, featuring local talent. All talented area residents are urged to audition and participate in the show. A prize of $50 will be awarded to the first place winner, with a $25 prize going to the second place winner, a $15 prize to the third place winner, and a $10 prize to the fourth place winner.

The contest is open to various forms of talent: singing, dancing, skits, and instruments, for example.

Appointments for auditions may be made by phoning Plowright Playhouse, 757-8252.

Postmaster Fined for Embezzlement

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A former Washington County postmaster who pleaded guilty to embezzling $2,656 from office funds has been fined $100 and placed on one-year probation in Federal Court.

Judge John Miller on Monday ordered the defendant, William Debrezeni, 45, of Richeyville, to pay the fine and costs within the probationary period. Debrezeni, according to a post office official, has already made restitution.

Debrezeni, who has been postmaster for 18 years, admitted stealing the money from the stamp and petty cash accounts over the years.

WITH BELL TELEPHONE

Former Warrenite
Finishes 30 Years

Stewart C. Armstrong, a native of Warren, will observe his 30th anniversary with the Bell Telephone Company in Harrisburg today.

Armstrong, an engineering associate for Bell in Harrisburg, joined the telephone company as an installer here shortly after his graduation from Warren High School in 1937.

Before being assigned to Harrisburg, he held Bell assignments in Bradford, Erie and Lancaster.

During World War II, he was in the U.S. Army and served in Italian East Africa, Egypt, Ethiopia, the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, Libya, Scotland, England, France, Belgium and Germany.

Armstrong is past president of the Council of Roses of the Telephone Pioneers of America in Lancaster, and is a member of Masonic Lodge 749 in Bradford and the Presbyterian Church, Mechanicsburg. He is married and the father of two children, Andrew S., 19, and Audrey, 16.

Bell officials and his co-workers will honor Armstrong at a luncheon today in the Penn Harris Hotel in Harrisburg. He lives at 1096 Cocklin st., Mechanicsburg, near Harrisburg.

Sharpville Boy
Drowns During Swim in Lake

MERCER — An 18-year-old Sharpville, Pa. youth drowned early Monday afternoon in the Shenango River Reservoir about one quarter mile east of Route 18 in Pymatuning township. Thomas Swager, 27½ Third st., Sharpville, was dead on arrival at Sharon General Hospital shortly after 6 p.m. after mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and machine respiration failed to revive him.

Pymatuning police chief John Bross said the victim went down in about 15 feet of water no more than 10 to 15 feet from shore while swimming with four Sharpville companions.

According to Chief Bross, Swager was pulled from the still cold Shenango River water about five minutes after he disappeared from the surface.

The youth was swimming with Ray Piccarilli, 19, while three other companions, Debbie and Kathy Hanley, 16 and 18 respectively and Anthony Paggios, 19, all from Sharpville were in a nearby boat when Swager went to the bottom.

Borough Approves
Paving of 4 Streets

Borough council on Monday, in addition to other items on the agenda, passed on first reading an ordinance to pave four streets in Warren.

The streets are Bent Twig rd., Willoughby ave., Connecticut ave. and Edgewood pl.

WILLIAM SMITH

Warrenite
Is Mayor
Of Corona

A former Warren man was named mayor of Corona, Calif., last week following a surprise resignation by the lady who had held the post for one year.

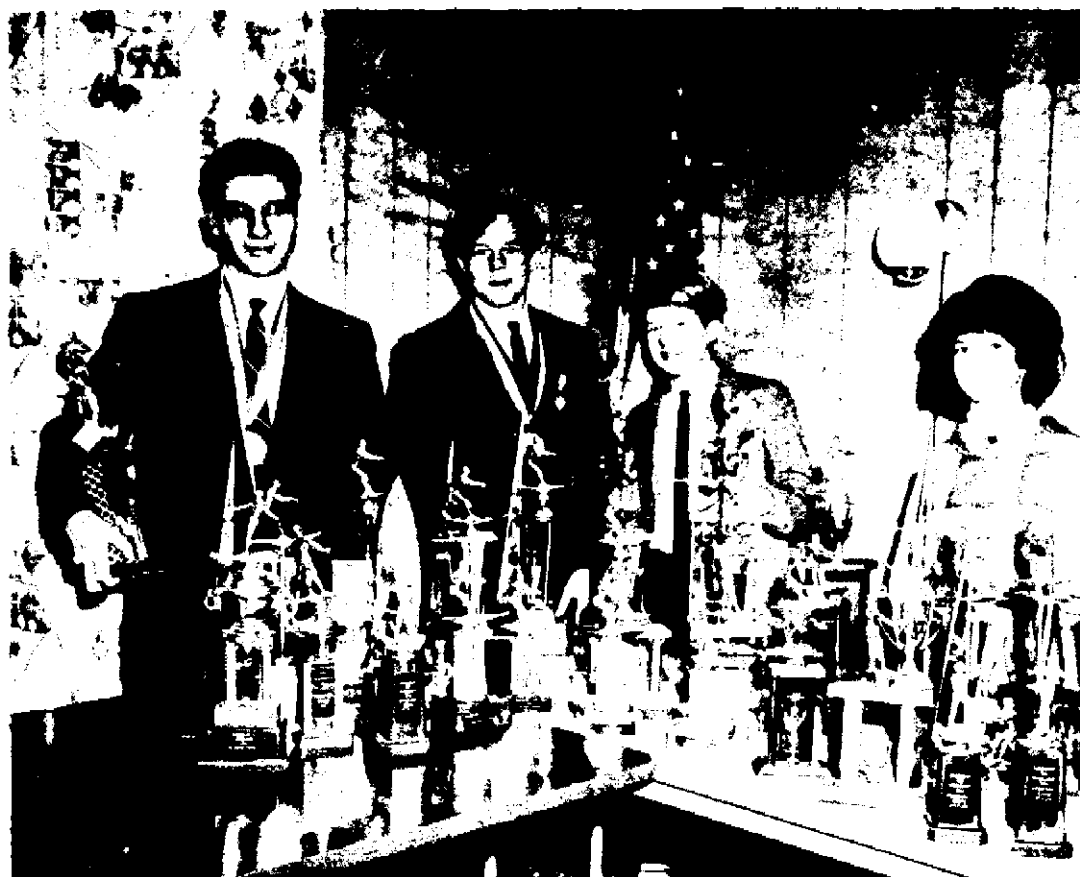

Bill Smith, son of Mrs. Esther Smith of Kinzua rd., left Warren about five years ago.

Retiring Mayor Rena Parker obviously startled the audience in council chamber Monday, June 5, by stating she was completing one year as mayor that day and was resigning the post because she felt it should be passed around among the councilmen.

She said the position constitutes a chairmanship and is an honor that should be equally shared by members of the council.

Smith told council he was the least eligible for the post but said "I feel it is a terrific compliment and I will do my best to follow one of the best mayors Corona has ever had."

In speaking of being the least eligible, Smith apparently referred to the fact he is the only appointed member of council and serves with four elected officials.

Fourth Celebration
Has Water Skiing

The Warren Jaycee's annual Fourth of July celebration will feature a new attraction this year—a water ski show on Allegheny Reservoir at 2 p.m. Sunday, July 2.

Members of The Barefoot Club will perform at the big 20th Jaycee celebration.

Club members are from western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio and belong to Sandy Lake and Conneaut Lake Water Ski Clubs. They are barefoot skiers who are experts in the art.

Appearing will be Ray McCracken, Hadley, Pa.; Tom Chatham, Bob Chatham and Bonnie Lombard. The youngest water skier is Perry McCracken, nine, who has been skiing since he was four-years-old. In the show he will be seen on slalom and trick ski.

There will also be ski jumping, 100 feet or more in distance from a ramp Jaycees are building and waxing. Members of the Century Club will perform.

Borough manager Victor L. Miller issued 22 building permits during May for a total value of $49,525.

Warren Man
Is Fined in Corry Court

CORRY — City police officers here answered a near-record load of calls over the weekend. A total of 17 incidents occupied the time of police officers Saturday, Sunday and early Monday morning.

Officers were off to a good start at 4 p.m. Saturday when they spotted a man lying on the front steps of Cliff Carroll's tavern on E. Main st.

The man, identified as Harold A. Mealy, 41, Riverside Hotel, Warren, was taken later to the office of Alderman M. S. Cobble, where he pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $10 and ordered to pay $9 costs. He paid both and was released.

RAILROAD PROPERTY

Tidioute Plans Purchase
For Parking Facilities

By Lenore McIntyre

Tidioute Borough will begin the purchase of a small tract of land from the Pennsylvania Railroad Company at an agreed price of $1,000, plus costs relative to such a transaction.

The property is the site of the former railroad station in Tidioute but does not include the station building which must be removed by its present owner. The borough plans to use the area for a metered parking lot.

Requests from two civic groups, the VFW and the Tidioute Little League Association, were heard and acted upon at the council meeting. Permission was granted the VFW to set off fireworks within the borough limits subject to the discretion of the fire department as to the site chosen. The VFW request for removal of a parking meter to make room for a driveway at the VFW building also was granted.

The Little League Association approached council on behalf of needed funds for repairing the fencing and retaining wall bounding the town's baseball diamond and for new fencing at a new field being developed on Norton Wood Products property.

Three Fatalities

Capt. Robert L. Dunham, commanding officer, Pennsylvania State police, Troop E, Erie, reports that out of 242 traffic accidents investigated last month in Warren, Erie, Crawford and Venango counties, three persons were killed.

For the same period last year police investigated 256 accidents in which five lost their lives.

According to Dunham, too fast for conditions and reckless driving still remain top causes of accidents followed by failure to yield the right of way, failure to give proper turn signals, failure to yield one half the highway, following too closely and failure to obey traffic signs and signals.

Fourteen accidents involved deer on the highway.

The drivers examination detail processed a total of 1,344 persons for operators' licenses with 960 passing tests.

for recreation had been previously committed but council voted to give $100 towards fencing and have the borough maintenance department help with whatever work needs to be done. Council indicated it would budget money in the future for maintenance of the field if ownership and administration can be clarified.

Action was taken to authorize the street department to use gravel, oil or calcium chloride on several borough streets needing such attention, to repair a sewer line on Elm st. and permit a sewer tap-in on Scott st.

The police department was ordered to crack down on speeding, and traffic control signs were authorized for streets adjacent to the school playground. Council also voted to replace street signs which have become lost, strayed or stolen.

Harold Koukle was sworn in to fill the vacancy created by the recent resignation of William Brown Jr., whose term would have expired Jan. 1, 1968. Koukle is a candidate for election to council in November on the Republican ticket.

Limestone 4-H Lads and Lassies Club from Tidioute toured Warren yesterday.

First stop was Walker Creamery Products to view processing of dairy products, including pasteurizing and processing of milk, cottage cheese, and ice cream.

After a brief visit to Washington Park, the group of seventeen young people toured the Warren County court house, guided by Attorney H. Robert Hampton, secretary of the Warren County Bar Association.

Associate County Agent Norman Perschke guided the club through the Warren County Civil Defense headquarters, the extension office, and other agencies in the court house basement.

The final part of the day's tour was the Warren State Hospital. Richard Barner, grounds superintendent, conducted a tour of the greenhouse, where the young people viewed an ancient century plant, which is ready to burst into bloom any day. The stalk measures about feet high.

Leader of the club is Mrs. Bruce Zeigler, of Tidioute, who accompanied them.

Erie Man Held
In Passing
Funny Money

ERIE — An Erie man was charged Monday with passing counterfeit money at a local gas station.

Arraigned before Alderman Merchie Calabrese was Robert Edinger, 27, of 3930 Garden dr. He was lodged in county jail in lieu of $1,000 bond for a hearing at 4 p.m. June 24.

Police accuse Edinger of passing a bogus $20 bill to an attendant at the Baron Service Station to pay for a $3 gasoline purchase Sunday.

Detectives were led to Edinger by a license number supplied by the attendant. Police said the bill was a poor counterfeit. According to police, the bogus $20 appears to have been reproduced on a copying machine.

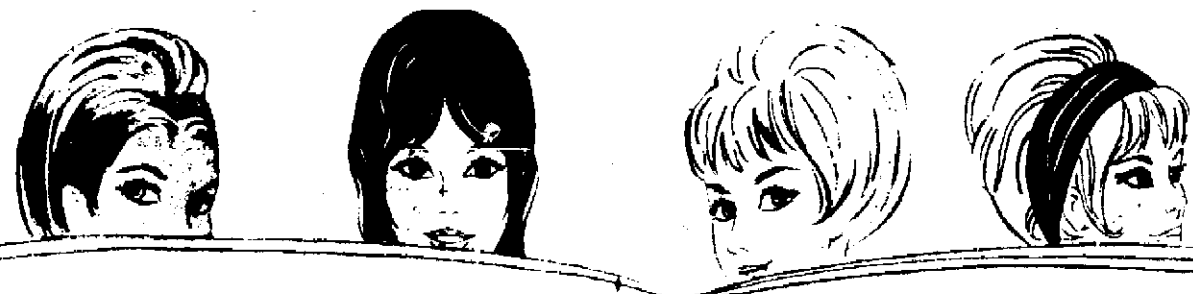

Agents from the U.S. Treasury will be contacted to pinpoint the origin of the bill.

Town
Crier

... By Les Rickey

There were howls aplenty across the state, I can imagine, when our elected representatives began talking about starting a lottery system for Pennsylvania to raise funds to pay for the increasing costs of state government.

It is, looking at it plainly and without euphemisms, a form of legalized gambling. It means that you can take your last two dollars, if you so desire, and spend it on the Big Chance—probably with the end result that you no longer have two dollars.

Raising the biggest hue and cry are those who envision people on state relief spending their relief checks on gambling tickets. But, to capsuleize the whole thing in this analogy, that is not so much a condemnation of the lottery than of the relief system, which could stand a great deal of reforming. If the gambling isn't there in the form of a lottery system, it exists in the back rooms of lodges and taverns and the man who wants to gamble will surely find it. And it won't make a bit of difference where his income comes from.

The whole thing puts some churches in a sticky situation. They cannot openly condone the lottery plan, but to condemn it would be hypocritical. Many churches, and some right here in Warren, conduct lotteries, chance games, and the like to raise funds for some reason or another. And, incidentally, the churches are not required to pay taxes to the state, local, or federal government.

The budget is going up. The money must come from somewhere. It is this or the graduated income tax, and the lottery system offers the state a chance to sock the guy who's asking for it.

In my opinion, it is either that or watch New York State prosper from the bootleg tickets sold to Pennsylvanians.

SOCIAL Wanderings

by Marion Honhart

THIS GRACEFUL JAMAL CAN BRIG has nothing whatever to do with our summer recreation program, the "Play and Stay" bit, Kinzua Lake, or, in fact anything in this area, but it looks cool and inviting and that's reason enough for showing it here, in this time of rainless heat. It is the place I'd most like to be this very minute and the impulse to picture it was irresistible. This really is a 96-foot brigantine named the "Caribee" — it sails daily off Port Royal, Jamaica, making trips to the beautiful cays and reefs off Kingston, for snorkeling, swimming, or just loafing and playing Robinson Crusoe on a deserted island. In case one's sense of history is a little hazy on this particular part of the world, it was at Port Royal that the famous pirate, Henry Morgan, in the 17th Century held his stronghold. Today, divers are now bringing to the surface much of the treasure that sank to the depths of the sea in an earthquake that doomed the city in 1692.

OPEN HOUSE is to be observed for the Silver Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Siller at their home, 1948 Jackson Run road, from 2 to 5 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, June 18th. Hosts for the affair will be their children who invite all relatives, neighbors and friends to call between those hours.

WHS CLASS OF '37 reminds all who expect to attend the 30th reunion and have not yet made reservations to call Marie Swanson Mathis at 723-7964. The affair this year will be held on Saturday, July 8, in the Knights of Columbus Hall. Festivities will begin with a social mixer at 5 p. m. — Picture taking will precede the 6:30 p. m. dinner hour. A full evening of entertainment has been planned with dancing from 9 until 1 a. m. to the music of the Don Baron Trio of Jamestown. Classmates are expected from California, New York, Ohio and all corners of Pennsylvania.

AND, DON'T FORGET THIS SATURDAY the Fourth Annual Art Festival takes place on the grounds of the Warren Art Center, 345 Fifth avenue, West, from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. This is a competitive show of artists from Northwest Pennsylvania and Southwest New York State. Artists and budding artists are invited to meet and talk to Warren's "Artist of the Day", Douglas Pickering of Pittsburgh. Mr. Pickering, past president of Pittsburgh Associated Artists, and professor of Painting at Carnegie Tech, and Pittsburgh's '67 "Artist of the Year" will display a three-dimensional painting. Then there's also featured on the program, Gloria Karp, president of Abstract Artists of Pittsburgh, and named in "Who's Who in American Art" who will give constructive criticism; A. B. Charley, of Clarion State College whose field is sculpture; and, Roland Lafferty, Edinboro State College professorial staff, member of American Craftsmen Council, and, Pennsylvania Craftsmen Guild, whose specialty is pottery. So, there is really something of interest for everyone — and — something any man, woman or child might want, it's on display at the Art League Center right now, day and night, the extremely attractive adult-size playhouse, workshop, or, garden tool house. It has a full size door and latticed window, and is going to belong to some fortunate man, woman or child by Saturday evening. Go out to the Art Center and take a look at this creation of William Lawhead, Warren contractor, who followed plans made by a firm of Texas architects. The structure will be delivered free to any point in the borough.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband insisted that I write and reply to that woman who signed herself "Lady From Ohio" — the one who had cancer surgery three years ago and lives in constant fear.

I had cancer surgery, too — mine was five years ago, and I had those same feelings. But a dear friend gave me a few lines that have been enormously helpful and I would like to pass them on to "Lady From Ohio."

"Fear knocked at my door,"

"Faith opened that door,"

"And no one was there,"

— LADY FROM INDIANA

DEAR LADY: Thank you, on behalf of the Lady From Ohio, and all the others who may find strength in those lines. It's amazing how a few words can get a person through some very dark days. I appreciate your taking the time to share yours.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A neighbor passed away recently. He was only 55 and an alcoholic. His sisters carried on at the funeral something awful. They wanted to give the impression that they loved their brother dearly and were deeply grieved.

Everyone in the family knew he suffered from emphysema. The doctors had warned him repeatedly to stay away from liquor. Yet his sisters served him cocktails when he came to their homes and treated him as if he were normal.

Please tell people the time to help their relatives is when they are alive. It doesn't do any good to weep and wail over a casket. — FED UP WITH PHONIES

DEAR FED: Who appointed you judge and jury? How do you know to what extent the sisters attempted to help their brother? Nothing is so futile (or frustrating) as trying to force help on an alcoholic who refused to accept it.

No one ever helped a problem drinker by locking up the liquor or pretending there wasn't any around — or by refusing to serve him a cocktail when others in the room are drinking. Such antics make an alcoholic more determined that ever to have his own way.

So please don't be critical of the sisters. What you don't know about this family situation could probably fill a library.

Want to say "no" to drinking without your buddies putting you down? Get cued in. Write for "Booze and You—For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

A New You by Emily Wilkens

The New You Mailbag

DEAR EMILY WILKENS:

UNLIPSTICKED LIPS

Every time I wear lipstick it cakes, and my lips become peeled and cracked.

Wendy P.

You may be allergic to some substance in the lipstick. Try a hypo-allergenic brand.

A simple lip gloss or slicker with color added, or any of the moisturizer-type lip embellishers (those of light consistency, without much body) might solve your problem. Buy several small-size tubes to see which product works best.

Many girls simply use a lip balm, at least for daytime wear.

TURPENTINE TROUBLES

I'm studying painting. How can I keep my hands and nails in good shape when they're soaked in paint and turpentine all day? The soap in the school washroom is very strong.

Ariane S.

Tote along your own soap in a plastic bottle. There are liquid types which contain detergent (you'll need a fairly strong soap to do an adequate clean-up job). Consider the kind doctors use for scrubbing up.

Use a silicone-based hand lotion before painting to help protect hands and nails.

Wash and rinse hands immediately after painting, and apply baby oil or lotion. Turpentine is especially harmful when allowed to remain on the skin.

Use rubber gloves for all clean-up chores. In any case, do try to paint the canvas, not yourself.

FOILED BY FINGERNAILS

I've tried everything on my fingernails and I am just about at my wit's end. None of the strengtheners or other products seem to do a bit of good. My nails stay flaky and soft. Do you know of a homemade recipe I could try?

Olive P.

Some find this oil and boric solution very helpful:

Mix 1 oz. castor oil and ¼ tsp. boric acid powder in a 2 oz. wide-mouth bottle. Soak nails every day for five minutes until improved, then once a week. Before soaking, buff, buff, buff. The solution should be warm. The simplest way to do this is to warm the bottle in a pan of water before each use. Always shake thoroughly.

Do you keep a non-allergenic colorless polish on nails to protect them during your daily routine?

Emily Wilkens welcomes letters, but cannot undertake to answer each one. She will use questions in her column of general interest. Address your letters to Emily Wilkens, c/o this newspaper.

Mr. Hofmann earned his Bachelor of Music Degree at Oberlin College and his master's degree at the University of Michigan where he studied with the distinguished American concert organists Robert Noehren and Marilyn Mason. He has performed extensively in eastern United States and Canada, and was guest artist at a national convention of the Royal Canadian College of Organists. His recital schedule has included programs at the National Cathedral, Washington, D. C., and at Philharmonic Hall, Lincoln Center, New York City. The bidding:
South West North East
1♥ 1♠ 2♥ 3♠
4♥ Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of ♠
In a highly competitive auction, South was permitted to buy the hand at four hearts, altho the opposition had a cheap one trick save available in spades. Inasmuch as West has no defense and his partner has confirmed a good fit by giving a jump raise, it appears that he should persist to four spades.

Once West passed, it was reasonable for East to defend since he holds three tricks in his own hand.

West opened the king of spades, and when the dummy was spread, East paused for a brief reflection before playing to the trick. On the basis of South's aggressive bidding, it appeared likely that the latter held the bulk of the missing high card strength in hearts and clubs. He was also short in spades and might have only a singleton. If this were the case, then the only other source of tricks for the defense was—diamonds.

It did not appear likely that West would shift to diamonds on his own initiative even if East were to give him a discouraging signal on the first trick, for the dummy's side suit looked somewhat imposing. East decided to extend a helping hand to his partner, therefore, by overtaking the king of spades with the ace.

At trick two, East shifted to the king of diamonds to observe West's reaction. When the latter started a high-low by dropping the jack of diamonds, East continued with the ace and then a third round of the suit. Declarer ruffed with the ten of hearts; however, West overruffed with the jack to set the contract.

Had South guessed to trump with the king of hearts, North's ace and queen would have dropped the doubleton jack permitting declarer's ten to draw the last trump. However, South made the natural play on the hand and is not open to charge.

The major credit on the deal goes to East for taking full charge of the defense at a time when his partner could hardly be expected to come up with the right answer if left to his own devices.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY, JUNE 14, 1967

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—Partnerships, business, personal life, generously influenced. You who take responsibility seriously have grand opportunities now. Be realistic in all things.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—Be alert now. Scrutinize all projects before acting. Rule out doubt, fear of failure. You have the knowhow.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—Your Mercury, in excellent position, encourages written matters, communications generally. Give a good account of yourself.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—Mild influences. Don't rest on past laurels or indulge in day-dreaming. Put forth your best efforts. A good period for encouraging new friendships.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—Give careful attention to all responsibilities and obligations. Haste could result in needless errors. Don't waste time on frivolity.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—This time and opportunity are here! ACCOMPLISH! You will be happy later that you strived. Don't mind if progress is slow at first. Activities will gather momentum.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—Step "gingerly" take a sure path, and step up efforts as you learn and become more adept. Do not accept hearsay as gospel. Eyes open!

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 23)—Review each plan for originality, method of execution AND follow-up. Astute action can make any sincere endeavor easier, register gains faster.

SAGITTARIUS (November 24 to December 21)—Benefic Jupiter influences continue. Take the optimistic point of view. It will give a fairer picture of situations and an enthusiasm that translates into fertile ideas, progress.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—What are your plans? Are you headed in the right direction with proper equipment? Allay worries by astute thinking, concise action, laudable goals.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—This type of day may be the just-right one for you now. Take the initiative where you might lose assets of time. Maintain your dignity, principles, rights.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—Neptune presents a quiet picture. Inject a bit of pep into activities, where needed. Incentive can be tailored to meet top requirements.

YOU BORN TODAY: Outstanding is your versatility and love of life. You are imaginative, skillful, sensitive, at times restless and changeable. You are always impatient to begin "something new" but if you lose interest, you drop your project without giving it a chance to prove itself. You always aim high, but you're no daydreamer. Your goals are always in the realm of possibility because you have so many talents and once really interested in those goals, spare no effort to attain them. You are definitely NOT a clock-watcher, will even overtax yourself in order to get a job done—sometimes to the detriment of health. Faults to conquer: Hypersensitivity, extravagance, over-exertion. Many noted writers, musicians, editors, researchers and experts in all communications media have been Gemini-born. Birthdate of Harriett Beecher Stowe, author; John McCormack, singer.

How to Keep Well By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

MEDICAL BROWSING
Some persons have a neurotic obsession about changes in temperature. They are constantly opening and closing windows and putting on or taking off sweaters or vests. Their morbid preoccupation with drafts and sensations of heat and cold stems from fear of developing a respiratory infection.

Most of us want to avoid colds and do not want to be uncomfortably hot or chilled. The body has the remarkable ability to adjust to minor changes in temperature so there is no need to panic when the wind changes or the out-of-doors temperature fluctuates.

At any rate, thermophiliacs claim they are unable to stand the heat or cold. They go thru all kinds of gyrations to combat the ensuing complications. In addition, they love to discuss their problem and get others involved in their neurotic behavior.

The nursing baby may be able to detect breast cancer at an early stage. Dr. Harry S. Goldsmith of the Sloan-Kettering Cancer center confirmed this theory in four lactating mothers when the baby refused milk from the involved breast. He called the phenomenon the "milk rejection sign."

In some instances the babies had been nursing from both breasts and suddenly refused milk from one side. This is not the same as when the breasts are normal and the child prefers one to the other. It is assumed that the liquid is refused because of a change in taste.

odor, or consistency. In all probability, the tumor blocks the milk ducts causing stasis and infection. One mother discovered a lump six weeks after the child refused to nurse from the involved breast.

A few cancers have disappeared spontaneously. The phenomenon is as rare as it is puzzling but enough cases have been reported to fill a book. Spontaneous regression, as it is called, may stem from the body's defenses or, perhaps the tumor outgrows its blood supply and dies from malnutrition. Good health seems to carry some sort of immunity to cancer.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

TOMORROW: Aplastic Anemia.

ADHESIONS
N. P. writes: If a person is operated on for adhesions due to previous surgery, will more follow a second operation to correct them?

REPLY
Yes, but there is a good possibility that the new adhesions are scar tissue and it is difficult to do an operation without leaving a few of them. The lesions, however, usually escape detection unless they kink or obstruct the intestine. When this occurs, surgery is necessary.

INCISION CLOSURE
N. F. writes: Is a suture the same as a stitch?

REPLY
For practical purposes, the two terms can be used interchangeably except by seamstresses.

TODAY'S HEALTH HINT
It's dumb to take chances.

IN MEMORIAM
 In loving memory of my husband and our Dad who passed away 4 years ago, June 14, 1963.

You can only have one father, Patient, kind and true. No other friend in all the world will be as true to you. For all his loving kindness, He asked nothing in return; If all the world deserts you, To Father you can turn. So all we can do, dear Father, Is to go and tend your grave And leave behind a token of love, To the best Father God ever gave.

Loved and missed by us all

HAPPY ENDING

Sugar roll shortcake is the perfect happy ending to a delicious dinner and this is one special that everyone will want repeated.

Tenth Inning Treat

Here's a wacky but winsome little carry-along snack to tickle the taste buds and the funny bones of your favorite little Hot Stove leaguers. Delight them with these frosting-stitched Chocolate Baseballs—perfect for a boy's party or a "tenth inning" snack—and great, too, for the tag-along tomboys who adore doing everything big brother does.

Snackable, shapeable puffed rice and sugar syrup give you a start. Add unsweetened chocolate and from there you can guess—or better, test—the scope of their seasonal success.

It'll be World Series time before you know it, so give in soon to your culinary sense of humor. Plan to make these little-people-pleasing Chocolate Baseballs before the season slips away.

CHOCOLATE BASEBALLS
Makes 8 baseballs
6 cups puffed rice
¾ cup sugar
½ cup water
¼ cup light corn syrup
½ teaspoon salt
2 oz. (2 sq.) unsweetened chocolate
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 teaspoon vanilla
Thick white confectioners' sugar frosting
Heat puffed rice in shallow baking pan in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 10 minutes. Pour into large greased bowl. Combine sugar, water, syrup and salt in saucepan, bring to boil. Add chocolate and continue cooking to soft ball stage (236 degrees F.) or until syrup dropped into cold water forms a soft ball. Remove from heat. Stir in butter and vanilla.

Pour over cereal, stirring until evenly coated. With greased hands, shape to form 8 balls, each about 2½ inches in diameter. Cool. Pipe a line of frosting on each ball to resemble the "stitching" on a baseball.

FOR LITTLE HOT STOVERS

Your little Hot Stove Leaguers will love these candy treats piped with white confectioners' Chocolate Baseballs. They're puffed cereal sugar frosting.

Simonetta Designs Meals With Flair

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
NOW LOOK who's written a cookbook.

Simonetta, the Italian-born duchess who reigns as a couturier in Paris, that's who. To celebrate the publication of her cookbook, "A Snob in the Kitchen" (Doubleday), Simonetta is on a visit to these United States. A few weeks ago, a New York fashion store (Bergdorf Goodman) gave a cocktail party to honor her and her book. Our friend, Roslyn Beilly, attended in our place and here's her report:

SIMONETTA

Famous fashion designer Simonetta has turned her hand to writing about food. Her new cookbook, "A Snob in the Kitchen", features Italian cuisine.

My, I loved the idea of cooking the spaghetti with lemon slices. I found the sauce delicate and unusual, in typical American style, however, I used the sauce on less spaghetti than Simonetta suggests."

SUMMER DAY SPAGHETTI
1 tablespoon oil
1 tablespoon butter
1 small can anchovy fillets
2 small onions, chopped
Juice of 1 lemon
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
4 tablespoons heavy cream
3 slices lemon
1 pound spaghetti

Place the oil, butter and anchovy fillets in a pan. When they are hot, throw in the onions and allow to cook on a low flame until the onions are well cooked. Slowly add the lemon juice and the parsley. Stir and let it cook very slowly for 5 minutes. Stir in the cream, but don't let it boil.

Cool the spaghetti in the boiling water to which you have added the slices of lemon. After 8 to 10 minutes when it is cooked, drain and mix in the sauce. Makes 4 servings.

A Happy Epilogue

Dessert is to dinner what the epilogue is to a play, and it is a wise hostess who plans the perfect dessert to end a meal. What better epilogue than Strawberry Shortcake? A tender, flaky shortcake topped with juicy, level-toned strawberries and whipped cream is definitely hard to beat—unless it's a better shortcake! Sugar Roll Short-cake is just that. Of course, it's made with all-purpose Bisquick! The addition of cream, cinnamon, nutmeg and nuts makes for the most tender, flavorful shortcake you can imagine, and it's a delightful combination with the strawberries and whipped cream.

Sugar Roll Shortcake is an epilogue you will want to repeat again and again. Here is the recipe as developed in the Betty Crocker Kitchens.

SUGAR ROLL SHORTCAKE
2 cups all-purpose biscuit mix
2 tablespoons sugar
¾ cup light cream
2 tablespoons soft butter
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon

¼ teaspoon nutmeg
2 tablespoons chopped nuts
½ cup whipping cream
2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
2 cups halved fresh strawberries, sweetened

Heat oven to 450 degrees. Lightly grease baking sheet. Mix all-purpose biscuit mix, 2 tablespoons sugar and the light cream with fork to soft dough. Beat 20 strokes. On lightly floured cloth-covered board knead 8 to 10 times. Roll into 12 x 6-inch rectangle. Spread with butter. Mix 2 tablespoons sugar, the cinnamon, nutmeg and nuts; sprinkle over butter. Beginning at NARROW side, roll up as for jelly roll. Pinch edges to seal. Cut roll into 6 slices. Place slices cut side down on prepared baking sheet; with sugared fingers flatten each to 1 inch thick. Bake 10 to 12 minutes or until nicely browned. Beat whipping cream and confectioners' sugar until stiff. Top warm rolls with strawberries and whipped cream. 6 servings.

BRIDAL COFFEECAKE

Bridal coffee cake prepared the easy Cool Rise way forecasts a lovely shower for the bride-to-be. Frosted almonds wrapped in transparent food wrap become pretty bouquets for the guests of honor or as favors for all the guests.

Something New For The Bridal Shower

If you're entertaining at a bridal shower for a June wedding, chances are you'd like to serve something new. Bridal Coffee Cake is perfect for the occasion. Rich with maraschino cherries and besprinkled with sugary rain drops, this pink rippled parasol forecasts a lovely party for the bride-to-be and her clever hostess.

Although it's pretty as a picture this party fare is easy to make the CoolRise way. Developed by Robin Hood Flour, the CoolRise method makes yeast baking cool and convenient even in summer. A busy hostess can complete the preparation of Bridal Coffee Cake in less than an hour -- mixing, kneading AND SHAPING. Then it's refrigerated to rise unattended for 2 hours, or up to 24 hours. Bake the coffee cake whenever convenient... just before the party if you like. Imagine how surprised your guests will be when they discover this sparkling -- bridal tribute is homebaked and oven fresh.

Add another special touch to the festivities with miniature bridal bouquets for the guests of honor. Wrap pastel frosted almonds in Saran Wrap food wrap and dip them quickly into boiling water to shrink the glittery covering. Then come the finishing touches -- wire for stems, a spray of greenery, a dainty doilie and a satin bow.

The bride will want to know the secret of CoolRise baking before the shower is over. Better keep a supply of recipes handy for the guests, too.

BRIDAL COFFEE CAKE
(CoolRise Method)
5-6 cups ROBIN HOOD

Flour (+) (Regular or Instant Blending)
2 pkgs. or cakes yeast, active dry or compressed
2 3/4 cup warm water (105°-115°F.)
1 cup warm milk (105°-115°F.)
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1 1/2 tsp. salt (+)
1/4 cup softened margarine or shortening
2 eggs
3/4 cup cut-up maraschino cherries, drained
SARAN Wrap
1 egg white, beaten
1/2 cup pearl sugar

Spoon or pour Robin Hood Flour into dry measuring cup. Level off and pour measured flour onto wax paper.

Sprinkle or crumble yeast into 2/3 cup warm water in large, warm bowl. Stir until dissolved. Add warm milk, granulated sugar, salt, margarine, eggs and 3 cups flour. Beat with wood spoon or electric mixer at low speed until smooth (about 1 minute). Then beat VIGOROUSLY with wooden spoon (150 strokes) or electric mixer at medium speed (2-3 minutes) until thick and elastic. Scrape sides of bowl occasionally. Stir in cherries with wooden spoon. Then add remaining flour gradually. Use just enough flour to make a soft dough which leaves sides of bowl, adding more if necessary. Turn out onto floured board. Round up into a ball.

Knead 5-10 minutes or until dough is smooth, elastic and no longer sticky. Cover with saran food wrap then a towel. Let rest for 20 minutes on board. Punch down. Divide into 2 equal portions. Round up each portion. Roll each portion into an 8x16-inch rectangle on lightly greased board. Cut long side into eight 2-inch strips. Reserve one strip for handle. Cut remaining strips diagonally, from corner to corner, to make 14 narrow triangles. The tapered ends will form top of umbrella. Twist each triangle slightly and place close together on LARGE greased baking sheet. Push together where necessary to form desired umbrella shape. Cut a small piece of dough from remaining strip to make knob for top of umbrella. Shape remainder into a long rope and twist slightly for handle. Place handle on baking sheet several inches apart and parallel to bottom of umbrella.

Cover pans loosely with saran food wrap.

Refrigerate 2 to 24 hours at moderately cold setting. When ready to bake, remove from refrigerator. Uncover. Let stand for 10 minutes while preheating oven. Brush each umbrella with beaten egg white and sprinkle with 1/4 cup pearl sugar just before baking.

Bake at 375 degrees for 20-25 minutes or until done. Remove handle when it appears done. The umbrella may take slightly longer to bake. Bake on a lower oven rack position for best results. Remove from baking sheets immediately. Cool on racks. Attach handle to umbrella when ready to serve.

Yield: 2 coffee cakes.
(+) If you use Robin Hood SELF-RISING Flour omit salt.

Party Sandwich Loaf

June is the month for parties. Whether it's a bridal shower, graduation celebration, or end-of-season bridge club luncheon you're planning, you'll want something extra-special to serve.

Here's a glamorous Party Sandwich Loaf--easy to make when you follow the directions below. Use piquant ham, egg, chicken, and lobster salads to make the marvelous fillings. Then frost the loaf all around with a combination of cream cheese and sour cream. Decorate with radishes, cherry tomatoes, olives or gherkins.

Remember, as the saying goes, "The better the bread, the better the sandwich." For the best party loaves, choose a firm textured premium bread.

PARTY SANDWICH LOAF

Softened butter

Deviled ham filling
Egg salad filling
Lobster salad filling
2 packages (8 oz. each) cream cheese

1 cup dairy sour cream
Radishes, cherry tomatoes, olives, sweet gherkins for garnish

Place three slices of bread side by side on a serving platter. Spread them with butter. Cover with Deviled Ham Filling. Butter three more bread slices and place buttered side down on ham. Press gently to keep loaf firm.

Spread second layer with butter then Egg Salad Filling. Repeat with third layer of buttered bread. Spread with butter and Chicken Salad Filling. Top with fourth layer of buttered bread. Spread with butter and Lobster Salad Filling. Cover with fifth layer of buttered bread, again pressing down gently. Do not butter top of last layer of bread.

Whip softened cream cheese and sour cream. Frost all sides, using a flat-bladed spatula. Decorate with radish

SCHOOL MENUS

Children go off to school each morning knowing what they'll be served for their free lunch. Swedish papers print the bill of fare for each school district. And it's a help to mothers, too, in planning her own meals for the family.

Safety Recommendations Made To Prevent Pool Accidents

Some 200 persons will drown this summer in home swimming pools. Most of the victims will be children. Most will die needlessly. The home pool has no waves, tides, or motorboats to worry about. Yet, despite certain safety advantages over the lake or shore, pools too often are the sites of unnecessary accidents.

According to Aetna Life and Casualty, a major writer of homeowners policies, the number of home pool drownings in recent years has risen in proportion to the increasing popularity of backyard pools. Privately owned permanent pools now number nearly half-a-million. Although pool owners are not charged higher premiums on their homeowners insurance, Aetna safety specialists warn that the premium for forgetting vital safety practices may be higher than anyone wants to pay. Aetna cites this example from its claim files of a typical home pool drowning. A two-year-old boy was riding his tricycle in the backyard as his mother watched him from the living room window. Her attention was diverted by a telephone call. While she talked "for two or three minutes" her son rode his shiny red tricycle into the family's swimming pool and drowned. This tragedy occurred because the boy's family violated the first two rules on this list of 10 "musts" for home pool safety: 1. In-ground pools should be fenced by high vertical wooden slabs with pointed tops or chain link fences with inwardly slanted tops of some sharp material such as barbed wire. Gates to permanent above-ground pools should be kept locked and ladders to plastic above ground pools should be removed when pools are not in use. 2. Watch children closely. Lack of supervision is the largest single cause of toddlers' drownings. A n occasional glance from a house window is not enough. You must be outside with your child. 3. Under no circumstances should a child who cannot swim be allowed to use inflated toys. Such playthings are not life-savers but potential killers. They may tempt young swimmers to try feats beyond their ability. 4. Your pool skimmer can be used to fish drowning swimmers out of the pool. Keep it handy at all times, along with a complete first aid kit. 5. Post safety rules, emergency procedures, and first aid instructions on permanent signs near the pool. Keep emergency telephone numbers next to the phone. 6. Bottles, glassware, food and barbecue equipment should be kept away from poolside—and barefoot swimmers. 7. Construct poolside pavements of roughly textured cement or use an abrasive paint to prevent slippery surfaces. 8. Mark the depth of in-ground pools with permanent paint and divide shallow and deep sections with buoy lines. 9. Be sure the water is deep enough for the height of your diving board. Depth must be a minimum of eight feet for a "low board." For boards 10-16 feet high, the water depth should equal the height of the board. 10. Allow only a professional electrician to install and repair wiring, pumps, and lighting fixtures.

'American Profile' Series Set by NBC

(c) N.Y. Times News Service NEW YORK—"American Profile," a series of eight one-hour documentaries on various aspects of American life, will be televised next season on Fridays at 10 p.m., starting Sept. 29. The programs will deal with the problem of our disappearing wildlife, Canada, the National Gallery of Art in Washington, Mexico's lower California, the late William Randolph Hearst's California Castle, San Simeon, and country and western music. Ted Yates, the NBC producer and reporter who died June 6 in Jerusalem of wounds received covering the Israeli-Arab war, was to have produced a program for the series on his native Wyoming. Another program will be substituted. Mayors of six American cities will be interviewed on a special one-hour edition of "Meet The Press" at 12:30 p.m. Sunday on the National Broadcasting Company. The program will be taped at the annual United States Conference of Mayors in Honolulu.

Archbishop Gannon Now 90 Years Old

ERIE, Pa. (AP)—Archbishop John M. Gannon celebrated his 90th birthday Monday, becoming one of the oldest ranking members of the Roman Catholic Church in America.

Bishop Gannon retired in December after 65 years as a clergyman. He asked that no one make a fuss over his birthday.

But the presiding bishop, The Most Rev. John Wheelon, said, "While conceding to the wish of the archbishop, I take this opportunity to express in the name of the laity, religious and priests of the entire diocese of Erie, prayers, best wishes and warmest congratulations... a blessed and happy birthday."

Only three American bishops have passed the age of 90 in office.

IN CHARACTER

GLASGOW, Ky. (AP) — Walter Curd, a veteran political leader in Barren County, sometimes finds it hard to step out of character.

He was listening to a basketball game on radio and his team moved ahead. Curd let out a shout. Someone asked what happened.

"Why," shouted Curd, "it's Allen County by one vote."

You're Telling Me! By WILLIAM RITT Central Press Writer

SNOWFALLS were reported at the very end of May in the state of Maine. Let's hope this doesn't mean that the Abominable Snowman has switched his headquarters from Mount Everest to the Pine Tree State's Mount Katahdin!

One of the oddest named creatures is the royal antelope, native of West Africa. It stands only 12 inches at the shoulder. That's scarcely king-size.

Women's feet are getting larger, reports a designer of feminine shoes for evening wear. Pump and circumstance?

Zadok Dumkopf says he thinks it's about time those lowly baseball-playing Washington Senators took a tip from their namesakes in the National Capitol and started filibustering against the rest of the American League.

Jupiter has 11 moons—science fiction. With so many aids to romance it's surprising astronomers didn't name the planet "Cupid."

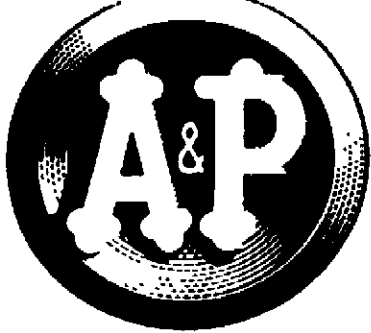

Grandpappy Jenkins says he's noticed the heroes of most novels are tall and broad-shouldered even in the pocket-size paperback editions.

The lances with which the knights of old armed themselves are said to have had a length of 16 feet. In keeping people you didn't like at a distance that should have worked much better than the proverbial 10-foot pole!

Come Sunday morning, will you be one of the millions of fathers who are forever amazed?

Will you look at your new fishing reel or power tool or camera...
and wonder:

"How did Mom get the money?"

You'll know she didn't rob a bank...and she didn't sell the car.

Maybe, just maybe, we can give you a hint.

Is Mom an A&P shopper?

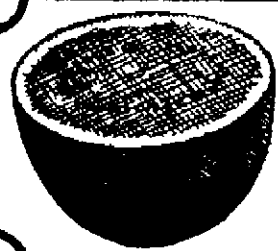

Could it be that the savings she makes each week of the year
add up to so much?

Why not ask her?

Before you do though, better take a quick look in the garage to make sure the car's still there.
